Hey, Ez... what's a music photeo?!

The term was coined in 2011 by Montreal filmmaker and photographer Ezra Soiferman's friend, Halifax-born, Baltimore-based Jasmine Oore, when she saw a short music video he’d recently made comprised solely of photographs instead of film or video footage.

Ezra loved Jasmine's very clever name for this and each subsequent video he's made bringing his photos to life has had the music photeo moniker attached to it.

His music photeos to date have been (oldest to newest):

"Do You Feel The World" (2011, featuring "Do You Feel The World" by Mike Evin)

"Last Game at The Forum" (February, 2016, featuring "We Go Home" by Adam Cohen), http://tinyurl.com/gvcq59a

https://youtu.be/4QLoqlFfEjE

"Ez in Res" (April 13th, 2017, featuring "Free Medicine" by Lake of Stew)

"The One to Dream" (Nov. 10, 2017, featuring "The One to Dream" by Kat Goldman)
https://youtu.be/A68jfGEk1r4

“Ecuadoria” (June 30, 2019, featuring “Si Tu No Estas Que Hago” written and performed by Julio Herrera, featuring Diego Gonzales on percussion. This video has some of Ezra’s photos from his June 2019 trip to Ecuador.)
https://youtu.be/6ivFzo5g4B8

“The Wildlife – The Walled Life” (April, 2021; Sung by Ezra Soiferman and Ilana Block, with wildlife and animal mural photos by Ezra Soiferman and Ilana Block.)
https://youtu.be/TS33tonG_K0

More of these to come!

Ezra

Ezra Soiferman
http://www.EzraSoiferman.com/