

Hey, Ez, what's a music photeo?!

The term was coined in 2011 by Montreal filmmaker & photographer Ezra Soiferman's friend, Halifax-born, Baltimore-based Jasmine Oore, when she saw a short music video he'd recently made comprised solely of photographs instead of film or video footage.

Ezra loved Jasmine's very clever name for this and each subsequent video he's made bringing his photos to life has had the music photeo name attached to it.

His five such projects to date have been (oldest to newest):

"Do You Feel The World" (2011, featuring "Do You Feel The World" by Mike Evin) <http://www.ezsez.com/2011/05/do-you-feel-world.html>

"Last Game at The Forum" (February, 2016, featuring "We Go Home" by Adam Cohen), <http://tinyurl.com/gvcq59a>

"The Walls of Montreal" / "Les Murs de Montréal" (August, 2016, featuring "Homecoming" by Josh Ritter). <https://youtu.be/4QLoqIFfEjE>

"Ez in Res'" (April 13th, 2017, featuring "Free Medicine" by Lake of Stew) <http://www.ezrasoiferman.com/ez-in-res/>

"The One to Dream" (Nov. 10, 2017, featuring "The One to Dream" by Kat Goldman) <https://youtu.be/A68jfGEk1r4>

More of these to come!
